CONDENSED STORIES.

Parson Feared Mr. Carnegle's Big Bill Was Counterfeit.

It is related that on the last tour of President McKinley in the south, Catholic, San Francisco. says the Des Maines (In.) Leader, Andrew Carnegie was in the party, and all were usked to attend a negro church in Thomasville, Ra., where a very fervid colored minister officiated. It is said that whenever be better than he is, and when he is a hill came in the services the deacons tank up a collection, but through hospitable mutives avoided passing the hox to the white visitors. The old pastor arose fit last than to speak of it at its best. Rev. and preached a sermon that was at the same time eloquent, earnest and ridiculous, preaching right at the white falks, and his description of the poverty of the church was so harvest of corruption. Rev. Dr. Frank impressive that when the dencons passed the contribution boxes cago. around for the third time Mr. Carmovie intercepted one and dropped a lifty dollar bill in the box. The old preacher counted their contents When he had finished, he placed a handful of small change on one sple and a crisp greenback on the other. Clearing his throat, he said: "Breddren, we has been greatly blescol by dish ver contribution. We has heah fo' dollahs an' fo'ty cents. Dat is good, an' if de fifty dallah bill put in hy de white gemman will de gray whiskers is also good we is blessed it whole lot at the giver of libraries and cam- and acts quickly, and religion must pain funds.

One day a little half starved yellow cur strayed into the school, and the have thought they saw a chance to express their feelings toward their teacher, who was busy in another room. The frightened mangrel was picked up, quickly fitted with a pair of large wire spectacles and placed on the teacher's chair. The teacher entered the room, walked to his it k, calmly surveyed the work of his pupils and then, turning to them, pleasantly said, "In my ubseare I see you have held a meeting and elected one of your number chairman.

Wanted the Feed Only. The famous tenor, Tamaguo, gave a large supper in his sumptuans villa at Varese recently to which he invited all the local authorities and many of his personal friends, In the invitation it was intimated that "while waiting the hour of supper, which is fixed for 11 p. m., there will be music to begin ut 9." One of the nuthorities replied, thanking him, adding, however, that he would come at 11 punctually. Tamagno, indignant at such a slight to his voice in favor of his supper. an world, "As the supper is only offered as a reward to those who have the patience to hear me sing and who want to be indulgent to me, I pray you renounce the supper and come to dinner with me tomorrow at noon, assuring you that I will not sing."

Barrymore's Hard Hit.

"I read everything that Richard Harding Davis writes," declared Francis Wilson, "and I like it, too, but I must tell a story on him and abide the consequences. It happened while the anthor was still fighting for a foothold in the literary world. He had been invited to a luncheon and sat next to Maurice Barrymore. The conversation turnof on the necessary qualifications for greatness in literature. At length young Davis cut in.

"Pshaw? he remarked. 'All one needs to be a great writer is just plain common sense,'

"Barrymore assumed a look of sympathy. 'Why do you struggle?' he queried softly." - New York

With the passes he brought a suggestion from the general to send some person with one or the other of the two parties under pretense of an escort, but really with a view to discovering the proximity of the enemy. Now that the main army was moving, it might be well to discover if the cavoiry on its flank had fallen back. The ground was unfavorable for a reconnoissance; hence the suggestion to get information by strategem.

The major hunted the camp for a Biblo on which to administer the oath ami called on Corporal Ratigan to help him. He explained the general's request and told Ratigau that he wanted him to go with Miss Baggs. Having given the corporal a full understanding of what was required of him, he went back to the party with a Ilible, followol by Ratigan. The farmer and his family were first CHAPTER IL A WAR OF WITS.

Corporal Rutigan rode gallautly besida Miss Haggs, the two keeping up a constant picket firing, which occasionally warmed to the dignity of a skirmish. Miss Baggs was in an excelient humor and the corporal quite delighted at the role he was playing. He pretended to watch her carefully whenever anything belonging to the army was passed on tim road, while he was secretly forming his plaus for getting far enough on the

The country people were constantiy passing between the lines, and considering their harrowing exenses no one except with a heart of stone could well prevent them.

"What's in the box ye have with ye?" asked Ratigan, looking at a square little box on the seat beside her. It had been covered with a shawl, which had fallen from over it, exposing It to view.

"Thet? Thet's a philosophy machine. You see, my friend, Sal Glassick, sho knows a heap of things. She's tryin terbeat some on 'em inter my pore noddle. Reckon she won't hey no easy time.' "What branch does she teach ye with Her attire was very cheap, and her cowhide shoes did not beteken refinement, but somehow he began to gather a notion that Miss Baggs was not so ; dreadfully common as she appeared. The corporal came of an excellent family in his native land, and under ordina circumstances contd detect refinement. He looked for Miss Baggs to use some expression beyond the ken of a "poor white" girl, but she did not. So he dismissed the matter from his mind and began to wonder what excuse he could make to go on with her under flag of rruce when she should pass the Union

He gave his horse the spur. corporal. Indeed Ratigan fell behind steadily. L he should break from a trot, he would lese the race; if he should keep up his trot, he would lose Miss Haggs. Suddenly are officer appeared on the road, and regarding him sternly ordered him to halt. "Oi'ne followin the young lady, slr. Oi'm on official business for the gineral, commandin the -th cavalry brlgade. " "Well, my man, you're a well discipitned orderly. You keep the regulation 40 paces to the rear. Give your horse the spur and catch up.'

Ratigau, who could not well explain to an offleer that he was running a race, and fearing to lose his charge, gave his horse the spur and dashed after her at a gallop. He reached her in a "biown" condition.

"Di've lost," he cried out of breath. "Reckon you have, "was Miss Haggs" sole reply.

'The money's yours."

"Reckon it air," repeated Miss Haggs "Yer always reckonin. Moldo yo reckoned about the end of the race loike the ant ye were talkin about.

At that moment they spied the outpost ahead.

"Waal, hyar wo air," said Miss Baggs. "Don't want ter part from you ams, Mr. Sojer. I'm powerful bad struck hyar." And she put her hand on her heart.

"Like enough Ocean flud scane reason to go with yo a bit. Oi'm all broken up meself, sure enough."

A Weak Stomach

Indigestion is often caused by over-eating. An eminent authority says the harm done thus exceeds that from the excessive use of alcohol. Eat all the good food you want but don't overload the stomach. A weak stomach may refuse to digest what you eat. Then you need a good digestant like Kodol, which digests your food with-out the stomach's aid. This rest and the wholesome tonics Kodol contains soon restore health. Dietling unneces-Kodol quickly relieves the feeling of fulness and bloating from which some people suffer after meals. Absolutely cures indigestion.
